Additional tips

- Create an account: If you don't have an account, you can sign up with Google, Microsoft, Apple, or an email address. Although it is not mandatory to participate in discussion boards, creating an account allows you to be identified as the author of your posts and you won't need to include your name every time you post.
- Edit posts: If you need to make changes, you can edit your post by selecting it and clicking on the edit icon. This option is available immediately after you post if you have not closed the window or if you have created an account.
- Reactions and comments: You can react to or comment on other participants' posts.
